

Grayling Merchants Tourney Champs

CAMP ELDORADO WINS CCC CHAMPIONSHIP

Last Thursday night the Grayling Merchants regained the Northern Michigan Amateur Championship by turning back the strong Gaylord team—25 to 21.

In the CCC tournament Camp Eldorado won easily over Camp Higgins. The Eldorado team is by far the classiest CCC team in this section of Michigan. Their passing and shooting is hard to beat. The score of the Eldorado-Higgins game was 53-22 in favor of Eldorado.

Camp Higgins defeated Camp Kalkaska by a large score in the first round but the boys from Kalkaska had had no practice before the tournament and put up a very good game considering. With a little practice the general opinion is that the colored boys would have changed the outcome considerably.

The Merchants defeated Petoskey for their first game, which was entirely nobody's game until the final whistle. The Merchants led by a large margin at half-time but a third quarter rally by Petoskey put them so close that it was doubtful whether or not the locals could stand the pace. However in the last few minutes they sunk a few timely baskets to come out ahead.

In the finals things were different. Playing Gaylord is always a battle, and what a game that was! Both teams played at a terrific pace and although Grayling opened the scoring, Gaylord led at the intermission, 15-13. This was the first time all year that the Merchants had been trailing at the half so they were determined to overcome that lead and the way they did was something to see. The ball never stopped moving and Grayling outscored Gaylord 12-6 the last half, passing the ball for the final four minutes, stalling for time. So far the second time in three years the Merchants have the Northern Michigan championship.

Chalker Wins Free Throw Contest
Ed. Chalker, local sharpshooter, lived up to expectations when he sunk 9 out of 10 free tosses to win the free throw medal. Ed. also got his share of points in the games Grayling played during the tourney.

STRIKES ARTESIAN WELL

While driving a pipe into the ground at his place near the AuSable bridge, Wm. Huddleston, (commonly known as Sailor), struck an artesian well.

He says he drove the pipe thru the overburden into hard clay. Continuing he struck sand and another layer of hard clay. Below this lower strata he struck water and was about to quit. He decided, however, to sink the point a little deeper in order to get more screen into the water vein when suddenly he was deluged with a stream of water coming up the pipe.

The water pipe is 1-34th inch in size and the water rises about 14 inches above the top. Of course Mr. Huddleston is delighted, and says he will pipe its flow to the river bank for the convenience of all who wish for water.

The demand for water by river voyagers is large and this will enable everyone to have the finest and purest cold water that can be found anywhere, without inconvenience.

MERCY HOSPITAL RECEIVES DONATIONS

Mercy Hospital recently received some very fine donations. The gift of the latest blood transfusion apparatus and a centrifuge for the laboratory was through the Red Cross and the hospital is very appreciative of these which add so greatly to the facilities of our Mercy Hospital which the Sisters of Mercy and the staff are forever striving to continue among the best of hospitals.

Also the gift of a beautiful silver tray came from Mrs. R. Hanson for her room, No. 201, which she refurbished last year. Mrs. Hanson's generosity to the hospital has always been great and has not only benefited the hospital but the community as well, helping to make an institution of which our citizens may be proud.

R. A. WRIGHT LANDS BLUE MARLIN

Brings In 148 Lb. Fish Off Hillsboro Light, In Florida

Fishing aboard the Kendon 11, off Fort Lauderdale, Florida, R. A. Wright, Grayling, Mich., saw a four-year-old dream come true as he hooked, played and landed a 148-pound blue marlin off Hillsboro Lighthouse. The fish, the first big gamester that has come his way in four years of angling, measured 8 feet 7½ inches. It was hooked on a two-year-old 24-thread line. It required efforts of three men to load it into the boat.

The fish, after battling for an hour and 32 minutes, refused to surrender even after being hauled aboard.

Harlem Globe Trotters Coming

MERCHANTS TO BE HOSTS TO PRO QUINT

Basketball fans in these parts are in for a treat next Wednesday, April 6th, at the Grayling school gym when the colorful Harlem Globe Trotters make their appearance here. About a year ago this team met with the Grayling Merchants and they awed the spectators by their wonderful basketball ability, so they are returning at popular request.

Jackson leads the quint—Inman Jackson, the big boy who plays center; little Harry Rusan, that man with the dynamite shot; Bill Ford, ace guard; Ted Strong, the boy with the hands that are as big as dishpans; Zach Clayton, former New York Renaissance and Philadelphia star; and Jim Haynes, Detroit product, are all with the six-man galaxy which will tangle with the Merchants Wednesday, April 6th. These men are all top-notchers in basketball and for those who like vaudeville and who delight in real entertainment, this will be a bill to their liking next Wednesday evening at 8:30.

MR. AND MRS. ROY MILNES ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Milnes were hosts to their Bridge club at a dinner Friday evening.

The dinner was served to some sixteen guests on small tables placed through the living rooms. At bridge which followed, Mrs. Emil Giegling and A. J. Joseph held the high scores. Mrs. Harry Connine was a guest of the club.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET

One of the outstanding programs for the club year of the Womans Club was the Mother and Daughter banquet given Monday-evening at Shoppenagons Inn.

Two long tables seating some eighty guests were centered by silver candelabra holding yellow candles. Low bouquets of forget-me-nots graced the ends of the tables. Following invocation by Jane Milnes, Miss Eva Dorr, president of the Club, acting as toastmistress, welcomed the guests and then announced a violin ensemble by Betty Parsons, Rhoda Jean Miller, Billyann Clippert, and Beatrice Petersen which was very well received. A toast to the mothers given by Mary Jane Joseph was well written and well given and received hearty applause. Mrs. A. J. Joseph followed with a response to the daughters. She read the poem "Nobility," "Cradle Song," sung by Barbara Borchers, was very sweetly rendered.

Miss Dorr then introduced Mrs. Harold Fleming of Clare who gave an address on Hull House and its founder, Jane Addams. Mrs. Fleming did social service work at Hull House in Chicago for some five years and she gave a resume of the work done by this famous institution. The violin ensemble closed the program by playing Mozart's "Minuet."

Mrs. Roy Milnes and Mrs. C. G. Clippert had charge of the program and Miss Eleanor Tumath of the banquet.

CARD OF THANKS

Our sincere appreciation is extended for the many kindnesses and beautiful expressions of sympathy in our late bereavement. Mrs. Nikolai Schlotz, and the Schlotz Family. Mrs. Nels Olson and Family.

New Gamble Store Opens Friday

Grayling's new Authorized Gamble Store Agency located in the old postoffice building, will be opened Friday, April 1st. E. K. Burns, owner and manager, has been busily engaged for some time getting the store set up for the opening. New, modern fixtures have been installed.

Everything will be in readiness Friday, when the people of this community will have their first opportunity to inspect the extensive line of merchandise handled by this new store. This merchandise consists, in part, of automotive supplies, featuring tires and batteries, paint, radios, and household necessities.

All stores bearing the "Authorized Agency Gamble Stores" sign are owned by the man operating the store. These merchants are in business for themselves. The investment is theirs—they do their own ordering, they place their own advertising. It is their business. Yet the vast resources of Gamble Stores are behind them.

A Gamble Store Agency sells Gamble's merchandise at Gamble's regular low prices. Thus, even a store in a small town can meet mail order and big city prices, rendering a time and money-saving service. The Agency Operator's warehouse (or wholesale house) is the nearest Gamble Store, which, because of its nearness, practically eliminates delay and transportation costs. Here he obtains as much merchandise as is necessary to answer the needs of his community. Every item handled in a regular Gamble Store is available to the consumer through Gamble Store Agencies.

This new Gamble Store Agency is one of 1948 Gamble Stores and Gamble Store Agencies now operating in the middlewest.

Walter Hastings Was Guest Speaker

SHOWS MOTION PICTURES OF WILD LIFE, FLOWERS, ETC.

One of the most interesting programs ever presented before the Grayling Kiwanis club and the Izaak Walton League was given by Walter E. Hastings Wednesday noon and evening.

Mr. Hastings is the official photographer for the state conservation commission and over a period of many years he has devoted his time exclusively to the photographing of Michigan wild animals, fish, birds, flowers, insects and other objects that come under the care of the conservation department.

He spoke to the Kiwanians at noon and to the members of the Izaak Walton League in the evening. He showed pictures of the moose herd on Isle Royale, deer trapping in lower Michigan, and food conditions for these Michigan animals of the large variety.

A motion picture in color of "Colorful Michigan" showed many beauty spots in Michigan in their natural colors. Michigan flowers, moths and other species in colors were beautiful and in all made most delightful and educational programs.

Basket Ball Teams Guests

The Kiwanians played hosts to the High School basketball teams of Grayling and Roscommon. Both teams had enviable records for the season. Grayling lost in the regional tournament and Roscommon went thru to the semi-finals of the state tournament. With the latter team were 11 players, coach A. R. Hearer and Superintendent of schools E. J. Kiehnert. About the same number of Grayling players were present, together with Coach Willard Cornell and Superintendent Gerald Poir.

Walter E. Hastings, the guest speaker, has been granted a leave of absence from the Department and will leave in about a month for Labrador, Newfoundland and Baffinland to photograph wildlife and other natural features in these far away countries. He will be gone about six months. Upon his return he no doubt will have some very interesting pictures to exhibit.

APPROVE SKATING RINK MANAGEMENT

H. W. Jennison of Bay City, who just opened a skating rink in Grayling in the Temple theatre, comes here with a large number of written endorsements for the management of his rink and for the orderly way in which the crowds enjoy the pastime. Both young and older people at times frequent the rink in groups, which practice is endorsed and urged by some of the leading citizens of Bay City.

Among the letters Mr. Jennison has on file are some from Geo. F. Landane, boy scout executive; Rev. Fr. Geo. Vincent of St. Joseph High school, Bay City, and Rev. D. E. Ramsayer of Bay City, West Baptist church.

People who attend our roller skating rinks must be orderly and must appear in neat attire, said Mr. Jennison.

THE COO'S BIRTHDAY

Today marks the 10th anniversary of the Civilian Conservation Corps. It was on this date, in 1928, that President Roosevelt signed a measure which established the CCC.

The state of Michigan, like all of the other states, has greatly benefited by the valuable work done by the young men during the five-year period in which their organization has functioned. At the time there were 111 camps operating in this state. At present 43 are functioning, the smallest number since the work of the organization was begun.

In Michigan the administration of the CCC camps is divided among seven agencies. These camps located within the broad scope of national forests are the responsibility of the respective forest supervisors. Those located in state forests, state game refuges and other state-administered areas are supervised by the Michigan state forestry CCC unit working closely with the various divisions of the Michigan Department of Conservation. The camps located in some parks are supervised by the state park department.

The valuable work done by the CCC is well known to every one in northern Michigan. They played a major role in the reforestation of the state's forest lands. Their part in educating the people in the value of conservation is very important. They have worked hard to build up the conservation programs of the state and they have done much to better the lives of the people who live in the state.

The Civilian Conservation Corps is an important part of the New Deal. Its existence has solved many problems and it should be maintained as a permanent part of the government. It will bring many more successful enterprises.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

By Edgar Flory

Now is the time for every good citizen to come to the aid of his country. It is to be peace and freedom, he would do well to write his Congressman at once, urging him to oppose the Naval Expansion bill and the May bill now before Congress.

The Naval Expansion bill is a proposal of the Administration and would increase the navy by twenty per cent. This bill has already passed the House of Representatives and is now before the Senate. This measure is proposed as a means of national defense, but even many naval experts testify that the present navy is sufficiently large to defend our shores. On the other hand, there is much evidence to lead the thoughtful citizen to believe that we are preparing for a foreign war. Admiral Leahy, a sponsor of the naval bill, has stated that the U. S. navy would need to be three times as large in order to wage a successful war in the Far East. If that be true, what danger is there that Japan could wage a successful war in the Far East against the United States, assuming as that navy is smaller than that of the country?

The expenditure of billions of dollars for the naval expansion program is not needed for national defense, but is either for an aggressive war or as a waste of money in the war against the enemy. The country really believes in national defense, let it spend these billions for bread, clothing and shelter for the poor and not the pampered Congressional and military officers who are a burden on the country.

No person who was actually in the navy has been known to believe that the United States could be attacked by sea.

Therefore, we urge every patriotic citizen to write to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Senator M. Bennett T. S. Smith, U. S. Senate, Washington, D. C., requesting that they oppose the bill which would increase the navy and spend the money on the people.

The second bill, in question, the May bill, H. R. 1014, is one of the most expensive and dangerous pieces of legislation introduced in the House of Representatives. It would increase the President's power to the point where he would be able to declare war without the approval of Congress. This is a dangerous power which should be reserved for Congress.

John Roenspies Suffers Severe Injuries From Animal

He was about to snap one of the lines to the horse's bit when the animal grabbed his left arm and started grinding it into shreds. He called for help and it was perhaps ten minutes before the arm was released.

The wounded man was brought to Mercy Hospital where he is at present under the doctor's care. Mr. Roenspies is a large man with especially large strong arms and he believes that this alone saved him from losing his arm completely. He says that the horse had always appeared harmless and he cannot understand what induced it to attack him in this manner.

Electrocution
So far as electrocution is concerned, it is not the voltage that counts, but whether or not the current passes through the body, constricting the heart muscles. People have been killed under certain conditions by the common household current of 110 volts. Criminals are executed by 2,000-volt currents.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

THE FARMER GUESSES THE TRUTH

IF BILLY MINK had known that he had been discovered by the farmer under whose woodpile he was living, it is probable that he would have moved on in search of new adventures just as soon as the Black Shadows had crept out across the barnyard that night. But Billy didn't know. He had been living there so comfortably that he had grown a little careless, otherwise he never would have ventured out in broad daylight.

That night he decided he would have another chicken for dinner, so he ran over to the henhouse, intending to slip through the hole in the dark corner just as he had done the night before. But the minute Billy poked his nose through that hole he knew that something was wrong. There was a queer smell. Billy tested it very carefully with his nose. It was the man smell. That was enough to make Billy suspicious.

In less time than it takes to tell it, he found a trap in that henhouse, so placed that he couldn't possibly get in through that hole without stepping in it. Right away Billy decided that he didn't care for a chicken dinner that night. He would go back to the big barn and try to catch a mouse.

Now, when the farmer had first discovered Billy Mink his one thought had been to catch Billy. He knew that Billy's brown coat could be sold for enough to pay several times over for the hen Billy had killed. So he had set a trap in the henhouse. That night the rats in the house were noisier than ever. For a while the farmer forgot Billy Mink trying to think of some way to get rid of those rats. Then his thought came back to Billy Mink and all in a flash he understood why those rats had deserted the big barn and come over to the house.

"It was that mink!" he exclaimed right out loud.

"What are you talking about?" demanded his wife whom he had awakened from a nap.

"That mink I saw today going under the woodpile, the one who killed the chicken last night," replied the farmer. "That fellow must have been living around here for some time and he chased those rats out of the barn. There isn't a doubt about it. He hunted those rats in the barn until he frightened them so they moved over here. You see, he could follow them everywhere, and there was no getting away from him. The pesky robbers simply decided they had to move and our house was the best place to move to."

"It's all as plain as the nose on my face. If the rats had remained in the barn I don't believe that mink would have bothered the chickens. Probably he doesn't dare come over here to the house, or else he doesn't know where the rats went to. If he would just come over here for a while we would soon be rid of those pests, and I would give him for killing that hen."

Lansing—Reflecting the administration's concern over the growing treasury deficit is the latest tax "trial balloon" sent up by John Fegan, chairman of the state tax commission.

It was last January, you will recall, that Governor Murphy proclaimed the merit of a state income tax at the Jackson Day dinner in Detroit. George Schroeder, speaker of the house, had previously mentioned the income tax as a possibility for legislative action. And about that time the tax commission's new consultant, Charles Darwin Rosa, a Wisconsin progressive and LaFollette lieutenant, had publicly denounced the sales tax and had insisted that Wisconsin's income tax had not hurt industry.

If the income tax movement was a trial balloon, it was quickly deflated, as public sentiment indicated that the Michigan taxpayer was cool to the plan, as he had been in other years when referendums were held.

Another Balloon Down

The second balloon to go up was the personal property tax, personally sponsored by Chairman Fegan, youthful head of the tax commission. Fegan was impressed by success in other states of putting "hidden wealth" on tax rolls by the simple procedure of examining U.S. income tax reports.

Rebuffed by the governor who vetoed the announced plan of taxing all personal property valued at more than $1,000 per individual, Fegan tried to explain his actions by declaring that legislators had been bribed by vested interests to defeat certain tax legislation in the last session.

The bribe story stirred another tempest, the second as stormy as the first.

Lieutenant Governor Leo Nowicki jumped into the arena with a demand for evidence. Speaker George Schroeder intimated that Fegan's tax moves and talk were bad in a campaign year.

When the governor left for a vacation in the South, the second tax balloon had returned to earth. As with the income tax, Fegan's plan demonstrated that Michigan is getting tax conscious. And that is something.

Unionizing WPA

The waning influence of the C.I.O. in Michigan receded still further the other day when Homer Martin, U.A.W. boss, announced plans to unionize the WPA workers.

One year ago the C.I.O. was riding triumphantly on the crest. In defiance of constitutional law and order, leaders seized control of automobile plants. It was national "sit-down" headache of 1937.

Membership dues were easy to pick off in 1937 when workers were getting fat pay checks as they auto plants sought to catch up with unfilled orders.

When the pendulum began to swing back, no one foresaw that the downward curve of production would be so long and so sharp. From fields of clover, the C.I.O. found themselves with thousands of names on the books and a small percentage of workers paying dues. In Lansing it was found recently that less than 10 per cent of the 1937 C.I.O. workers in one automobile factory are active members today—members who have paid their dues and are in good standing.

Apparently the prospect of Uncle Sam dumping more WPA millions into Michigan was too much for Homer Martin. Nims, WPA administrator for Michigan, informed the press that it was none of his business if a WPA worker wanted to join the C.I.O. and pay union dues. It is felt here that the C.I.O. could not have done anything to discredit itself more effectively than by this latest move to sponge off the WPA.

Unemployment Tax

Whereas the income tax and personal tax have been side-tracked for the immediate future at least, the administration has nailed to its 1939 legislative platform a plank to broaden the base of the state unemployment tax.

Michigan's unemployment compensation act applies only to employers of eight or more persons. Industries of any importance are affected.

But the "little business man," who stirred up such a fuss at Washington several months ago, was exempt from the tax by the legislature in 1936.

Frank Picard, chairman of the commission, wants to see the compensation benefits extended to 300,000 workers. The governor agrees with Picard and has pledged to the A. F. of L. that he would support extension of the tax to cover all employees. Note this: The jobs levy is not taken out of the worker's pay check. It is a tax on the employer, running up to 3 per cent of the annual pay roll.

Smelt Run, a Tradition

Peculiarly Michiganian is the smelt run, that phenomenon of nature which takes place early each spring.

Last Saturday was the official opening of the "run" at Boyne City. This week brings the annual rush at Beulah, and next week end the Escanaba festival.

It was Newt Ely, Benzie county clerk, who is accredited with the discovery of the smelt phenomenon one early spring morning in 1918. Going to Cold creek in Beulah for a pail of water, Ely was flabbergasted when he pulled up a bucket filled with struggling silver fish. Four years later the fish were identified, and then it was recalled that the Michigan fish commission had planted smelt in Crystal lake in April, 1912.

Last spring we were telling a New Yorker about the Michigan smelt run and how one community had celebrated the event by crowning a "smelt queen." He was astounded. "It was unbelievable. Then his face was wreathed in a huge smile. "Wait until Walter Winchell hears of this one!" he enthused.

Farm Crops for Industry

Nurtured at Dearborn and today a national movement is farm chemistry—converting farm products into industrial products by the medium of chemistry.

At Midland, home of the Dow chemical plant, Dr. William J. Hale believes that the Michigan farmer of the future will receive cash from crops utilized entirely by industry.

Corn, potatoes, and almost any starch or sugar producing crop can be converted by the wizardry of science into ethyl alcohol. Ethyl alcohol, when mixed with lower grades of gasoline, is a very efficient motor fuel with qualities that are said to be superior of higher grades of gasoline.

Dr. Hale is also interested in the possibility of making paper from new fast-growing hybrid poplars. The Dow plant is experimenting with production of pulp wood from these poplars, and as the trees grow to fair size in eight to fifteen years, you can readily appreciate what a pulp wood process of this kind would mean to Michigan.

In Midland county alone, 60 per cent of all the land is unfit for growing of food crops. Michigan, as well as Midland, looks hopefully to farm chemistry.

Chippewa to Ontonagon

Due to the modern railroad, the Hiawatha country of the Upper Peninsula has again been brought closer to the recreation-hungry millions of Chicago.

The lumber and mining industries once thrived in the forest-covered hills of the Upper Peninsula.

Now, the tourist business, second in Michigan of all industries, is regarded as the hope of this natural wonderland. The only barrier, distance from large cities, is being rapidly removed as railroads in a u g u r a super-speed trains and offer de luxe accommodations for passengers.

Ontonagon county, a stronghold of the Chippewa Indians, has been brought within 10 hours' time of Chicago by inauguration of the "Chippewa" speed train by the Milwaukee Road.

COULD IT HAPPEN HERE?

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

The imprisonment of Martin Niemöller has called forth protests from all parts of the Christian world. It would seem that the era of martyrdom is not over. A great historian once wrote: "The blood of the martyrs has become the seed of the Church." The statement was more than a prophecy; for even in the days when Christians were thrown to the lions in the arena to make sport for the Roman emperor, the foundations of a Christian civilization were being laid. We read with absorbing interest of the biography of Luther, and yet, Martin Niemöller in prison faced a danger even greater than that of Luther. He is destined to influence the world even though his message came from behind prison walls.

Martin Niemöller is no weakling. He began his career as a commander of a submarine. After the war, he entered upon a task the chief objective of which was to make this world a more fit place to live. With this altruistic motive dominating his life, he rose rapidly in his profession and became the leader of one of the most influential and wealthy churches in Germany.

It was the utterances from the pulpit of this church that led to his arrest and imprisonment. A reviewer of one of the books written about him says, "Through these discourses shines the knightly figure of the man who refused to bow the knee to tyranny, and has met the martyr's fate."

While it is not our purpose to discuss the content per se of Mr. Niemöller's discourses, the fact remains that freedom of speech was denied to him, and in order to silence him, imprisonment seemed imperative. This question confronts us, "who live in the land of the free, and the home of the brave"—and it is this: Could such a situation occur here? For moral purposes we censor our movies. The principle is correct, but like all fundamental principles, its greatest strength may become its greatest weakness. It all depends upon the mind which controls the censorship.

The freedom of the press and the right of free speech have long been cherished principles of democracy. All efforts to curtail them have proven fruitless, thus far. But if democracy is superseded by any of those forces which place in the hands of a dictator the prerogatives of the social order, then those freedoms of the press and of speech are at once destroyed. In our industrial world, a small group of men do the planning, and the mass of laborers, especially in shops and factories, are only machines that mechanically carry out the commands of others. There is a grave danger in our economic situations that point to the power vested in a few, as against the limited means of expression given to the great mass. Democracy is confronted in its struggle for survival with the danger of having a few think for the many; a few commanding and many being made subservient to those commands.

There must be safeguarded in America not only freedom of speech and of the press, but an ever-growing development of the great masses in a political and social understanding of freedom in its highest sense.

We dare not destroy individual initiative and freedom of expression; for in that devastated region of personality will spring the impulses of revolutions and the destruction of generations of personal achievement. Could the fall of democracy happen here? No modern nation can be content to sleep while that question falls upon deaf ears. Could it happen here? Not while there are watchmen who would tell us of the night.

Chinatown for '39 World's Fair of West

The gorgeously colored life of old China will be reproduced at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. It will be a regular walled city with homes, markets, theaters and tea gardens. In an open air market artisans will ply their trades. Over all will loom an ornate temple and many storied pagoda.

SMELT RECIPE

At this time of the season there will no doubt be a supply of silvery smelt brought home from the smelt runs or the market sometime during the coming weeks.

To really appreciate the fine tasting qualities of smelt one must know how to cook these silvery fish. An old fishing guide has this recipe for frying smelt:

Remove small scales first with sharp knife. Slit the fish and remove entrails, and then remove silver lining from stomach by grasping with the thumb and index finger. After the smelt are cleaned, place in salt water over night. When preparing to cook the smelt roll in egg batter and dip in cracker meal or corn meal. Then fry in deep fat.

Another recipe that is popular in the Kingdom of Smeltania is:

Smelt à la Benedictine
1 lb. smelt, 4 medium sized sweet potatoes, juice of 1 lemon, 1 cup of cream or top milk, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and butter. Boil smelt until bones and any skin may be removed, mash fine, add 1 tablespoon of butter, juice of 1/2 lemon.
Cook, drain, mash the sweet potatoes, add pinch of pepper, 2 tablespoons of butter, juice of 1/2 lemon, salt to taste, add the cream or milk. Mix with the prepared fish. This makes a rough dough; if too stiff add a little milk. Grease a baking dish. Put in the dough, cover with bread crumbs and melted butter. Dot here and there with lumps of butter. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven. Serve in dish.

Lansing—Reflecting the administration's concern over the growing treasury deficit is the latest "trial balloon" sent up by John Fegan, chairman of the state tax commission. It was last January, you will recall, that Governor Murphy proclaimed the merit of a state income tax at the Jackson Day dinner in Detroit. George Schroeder, speaker of the house, had previously mentioned the income tax as a possibility for legislative action. And about that time, the tax commission's new consultant, Charles Darwin Ross, a Wisconsin progressive and LaFollette lieutenant, had publicly renounced the sales tax and had insisted that Wisconsin's income tax had not hurt industry.

If the income tax movement was a trial balloon, it was quickly deflated, as public sentiment indicated that the Michigan taxpayer was cool to the plan, as he had been in other years when referendums were held.

Another Balloon Down The second balloon to go up was the personal property tax, personally proposed by Chairman Fegan, your own head of the commission. Fegan was surprised by success in other states of putting "hidden wealth" on tax rolls by the simple procedure of examining U. S. income tax reports.

Rebuffed by the governor who vetoed the announced plan to taxing all personal property valued at more than $1000 per individual, Fegan tried to explain his actions by declaring that legislators had been bribed by vested interests to defeat certain tax legislation in the last session. The bribe story stirred another tempest, the second as stormy as the first.

Cleland Governor Leo W. Nichols jumped into the arena with a demand for evidence. Speaker George Schroeder intimated that a tax move was talk-work-wad in a campaign year.

When the governor left for a vacation in the South, the second tax balloon had returned to earth. As with the income tax, Fegan's plan demonstrated that Michigan is getting tax conscious. And that is something.

Unions WFA The waning influence of the C.I.O. in Michigan receded still further the other day when Homer Martin, U.A.W. boss, announced plans to unionize the WPA workers.

One year ago the C.I.O. was riding triumphantly on the crest of defiance of constitutional law and order, leaders seized control of automobile plants—it was national "sit-down" headache of 1937.

Membership dues were easy to pick off in 1937 when workers were getting fat pay checks and auto plants sought to catch up with unfiled orders.

When the pendulum began to swing back, no one foresaw that the downward curve of production would be so long—and so sharp. From fields of clover, the C.I.O. found themselves with thousands of names on the books and a small percentage of workers paying dues. In Lansing it was found recently that less than 10 per cent of the 1937 C.I.O. workers in one automobile factory are active members today—members who have "paid their dues and are in good standing."

Apparently the prospect of Uncle Sam dumping more WPA millions into Michigan was too much for Homer Martin. Nix, WPA administrator for Michigan, informed the press that it was none of his business if a WPA worker wanted to join the union and pay union dues. It is felt here that the C.I.O. could not have done anything to discredit itself more effectively than by this latest move to sponge off the WPA.

Unemployment Tax Whereas the income tax and personal tax have been side-tracked for the immediate future at least, the administration has nailed to its 1939 legislative platform a plan to broaden the base of the state unemployment tax.

Michigan's unemployment compensation act applies only to employers of eight or more persons. Industries of any importance are affected.

Speaker George Schroeder intimated that a tax move was talk-work-wad in a campaign year.

When the governor left for a vacation in the South, the second tax balloon had returned to earth.

As with the income tax, Fegan's plan demonstrated that Michigan is getting tax conscious. And that is something.

Yesterday we could have written beautiful weather for the thermometer went to 68 above and Old Sol shone down in great fashion, but today a chill wind is blowing and it is growing colder and at noon the temperature is 45 degrees above. One day the last of the week we enjoyed a day at 75 degrees. This is very unusual weather however for the month of March. Trees, bushes and other shrubbery have been in bud for several days. SCHOOL NEWS

GRAYLING SCHOOL

Wednesday of this week the cameraman who had been previously contracted, was busy taking movies of the school in operation. Grade and High school rooms were pictured showing the normal, everyday life of the school. "Shots" were also taken of many of the extra curricular activities which are carried on during the school year. Included in these were scenes of the basketball squad in action, Glee Club and orchestra, the Junior play, Dramatic club, and many others.

And Monday, April 4th, at 7:00 and 8:15 these pictures will be shown in the High School auditorium. A charge of 10c and 25c will be made, of which the school will receive a percentage.

With tryouts out of the way, a temporary cast has been chosen for the Senior play "Speak for Yourself." Joan" With Jerrine Peterson, Norberta Weiss, Dorothea Morris, Naomi Wheeler, Ruth Benware, Marie LaMotte, Laura Johnson, Dewey Coutts and John Henry Peterson making up the cast, and Miss McDonald directing, play lovers of Grayling will have something to look forward to in the near future. Announcement of the date will be made later.

The dramatic club is starting work on one act plays which may be presented later. This group has been hard at work for several weeks on the fundamental work of play production and presentation of their plays will conclude their work for this year.

Recently room 44 in the high school has been partitioned off and the space that was not used formerly will be utilized as a Biology laboratory. This will fill a long felt need along this line.

With the spring weather very much in evidence the past week, unofficial baseball practice is being held every day the weather permits. While several men were lost to the squad by graduation, nearly 30 candidates are expected to report to Coach Cornell as soon as the diamond is put in condition. Last year Grayling won the southern division championship and, while it is too early to make any predictions for the coming season, Grayling fans can look forward to seeing the usual snappy team representing the school.

Plans for the J-Hop are being rapidly formulated and dance devotees will do well to reserve the date of May 20th to attend this annual event.

FREDERIC SCHOOL

The Basketball banquet last Friday night was a success in spite of the fact that the award letters that were to be presented did not get here in time, even though we received a written statement from the company about two weeks ago promising them by the 25th. There are to be eight varsity letters awarded, one manager's letter, seven reserve team belt letters to the boys and seven varsity and five reserve team felt letters to the girls. There were sixty-four people present at the banquet and everyone present was pleased at the efficient and business-like way the work was handled. Mr. Frank Bond of Grayling public schools gave us a snappy little talk that was much enjoyed. We wish to thank everyone for their part in making this affair a great success.

Friday, April 1st is the date of the Junior play, "Pleasant Ta Meetcha." This play contains an item of mystery that hangs on almost to the final curtain and makes the play a very interesting one. The cast has been in training for a full month now and have mastered the play very well. Everyone who sees this play is sure to be satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

Plans for the spring carnival for April 8th are maturing rapidly. There is to be a funny, mysterious, one-act play to start it off, followed by a world of fun in such things as Dart Game, Bowling Alleys, Pistol target shooting, Spring Marble game, Bingo, a Fish Pond, Country Store. Besides the lunch counter will sell home made ice cream, pie, cake, sandwiches and coffee. We assure an evening of good, wholesome fun whether young or old.

The Senior Play "The Wary Ape" is progressing toward production which is to be Friday, April 15th. Don't miss it. This will undoubtedly be your last chance to see some of your favorite actors on the Frederic stage.

Plans are going ahead very smoothly for the annual J-Hop, April 29. Favors have been decided upon as well as programs and style of decoration. Remember, we are to have the Grayling Poki Dots for music, and we can assure you of an enjoyable evening at dancing.

The school pictures taken by the photographer from McClellan Studios of Kansas City arrived last week. Many were well pleased with their pictures while a few were disappointed.

Last week, Monday, the photographer for the Senior pictures was here and took pictures of the Senior class. All are anxiously waiting for the proofs to arrive to see how good looking they are.

Everyone is studying and working a little harder this week in preparation for six weeks tests Wednesday and Thursday.

"Roosevelt's Own Story of the New Deal"—a frank disclosure of what went on behind the scenes taken from the notes to the President's forthcoming books, is now appearing every day except Sunday in The Detroit News. Don't fail to read this story of the New Deal as told by the man who conceived it and put it into effect.

CAMP KALKASKA CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

During the week of March 30th to April 5th, some 1500 CCC Camps in the United States will be celebrating the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Civilian Conservation Corps. Camp Kalkaska, which has worked on a number of projects in this region during the past three years, is going to keep "open house" for visitors as a part of its celebration. There are 168 boys at the Camp and the feeding, housing, clothing, training and working of them is an undertaking especially interesting to those who have never before had the opportunity of visiting a CCC Camp.

Gregory A. Shadko, Project Supt., and Capt. Carl A. Gerfen, Commanding Officer, on behalf of the Camp cordially invite the people of the community to come out and see what the Camp is doing, both for the boys themselves in educational training and in work which the boys are doing for the betterment of the community. There will be exhibits of work, and there will be guides on hand to explain the various camp activities, and trips out to the work projects. In the evenings, there will be entertainment by the boys. It is requested that so far as possible, visitors come between the hours of 1:30 to 4:00 and 6:00 to 9:00 P. M.

Several organizations are scheduled to hold meetings at the Camp during the week. On Saturday, April 2nd at 1:00 P. M., the ladies of the four adjoining counties, Crawford, Antrim, Kalkaska and Grand Traverse are meeting at the Camp for a pot luck dinner. This meeting is being sponsored by the women's clubs of the community.

Home Economics Extension Notes

On Tuesday, April 5th, at 10 o'clock in the Courthouse in Grayling, the leaders of the Home Furnishings Project in Crawford county will meet for the 5th lesson. "How to redecorate the home by re-arranging the furniture and decorations already in the home to make it more homelike and interesting" will be the subject of this discussion of this project being given this year, by Miss Alice Hertzler, District Home Extension Agent, of Michigan State College.

It will be demonstrated that by correct furniture arrangements beauty, simplicity and restfulness may be added to a room. Each person will study the principles of decoration and apply them to her home. By using things in a more pleasing arrangement rather than by spending money, beautiful effects can be obtained. Rooms will seem larger, more useful and more comfortable.

Vandalism
The word "vandalism" was coined as a result of a circumstance in Roman history. At the decline of the Roman empire which for many years had been threatened by the Franks, the Huns and the Goths, the "Vandals" not only took the city but plundered it to such an extent that the word "vandalism" was coined.
